Our High School Years . . .

"A Completely Unique Experience."

Dedication

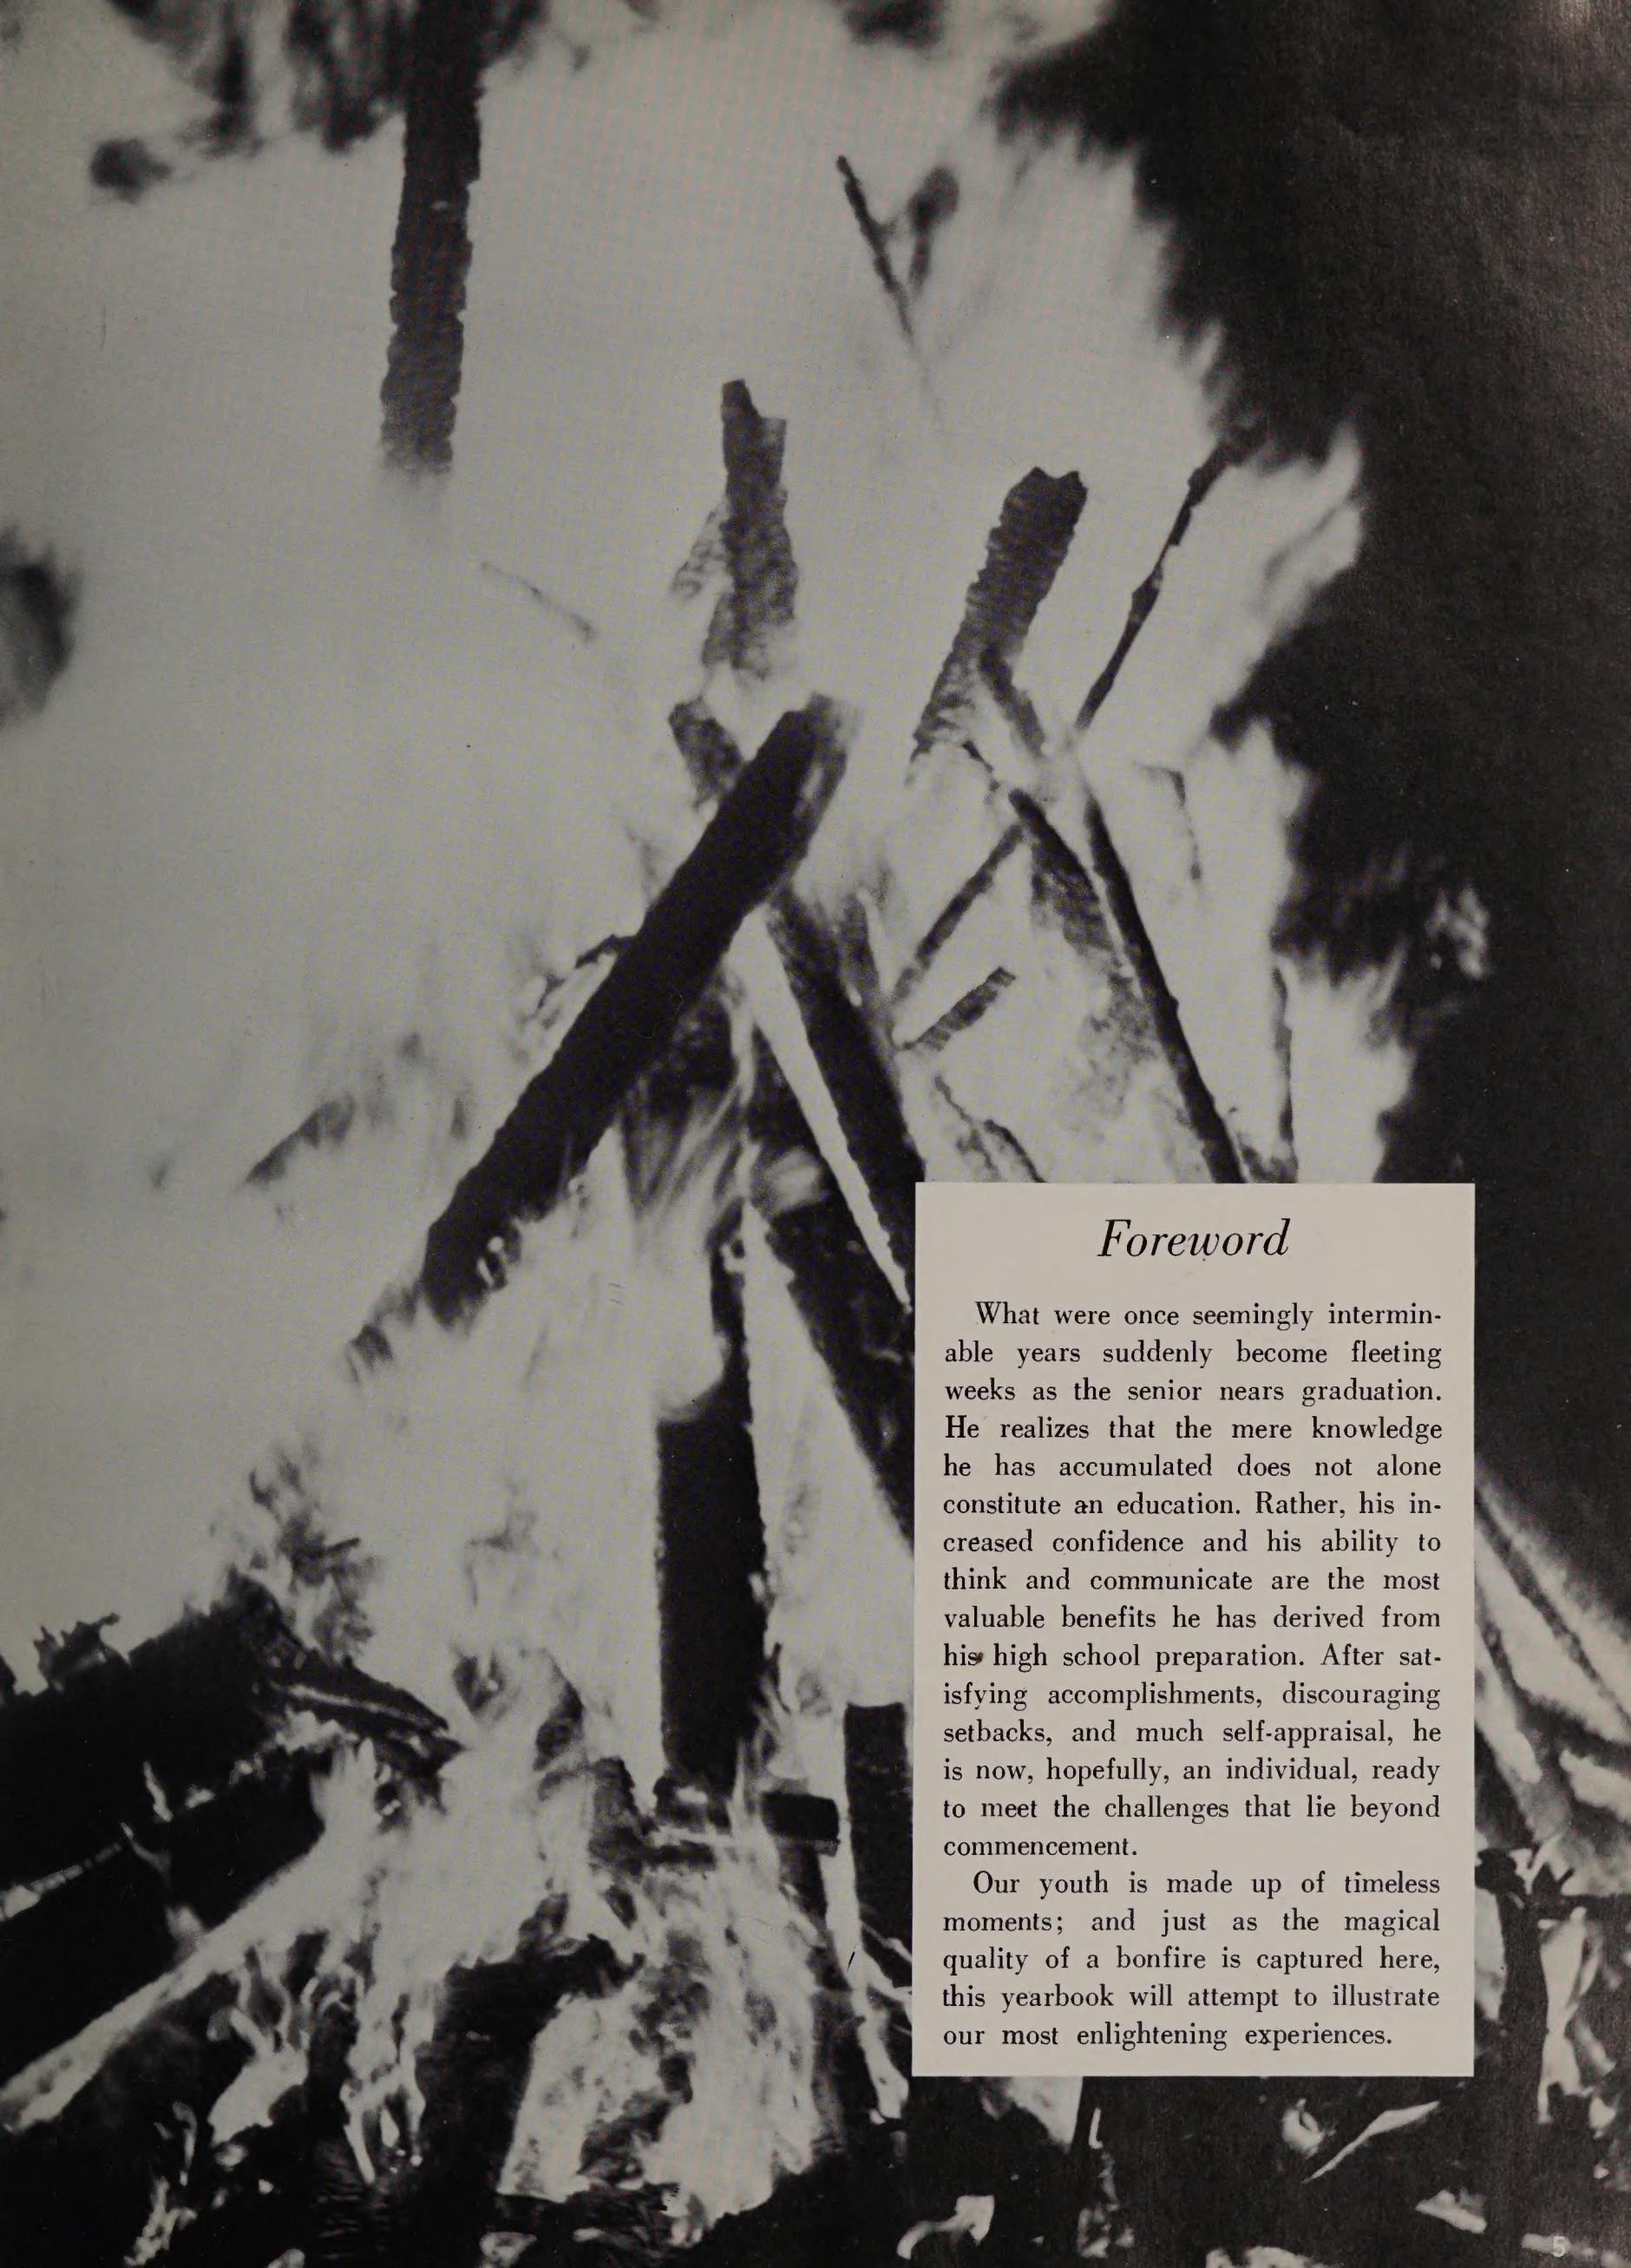

"In this world of so little giving, we pause to consider a generous spirit. Time will never dim the remembrance of one who gave so willingly of her abilities and, above all, her friendship."

And so, to you, Mrs. Stickler, we, the class of 1965, do dedicate this our yearbook.

Mrs. Ruth Stickler

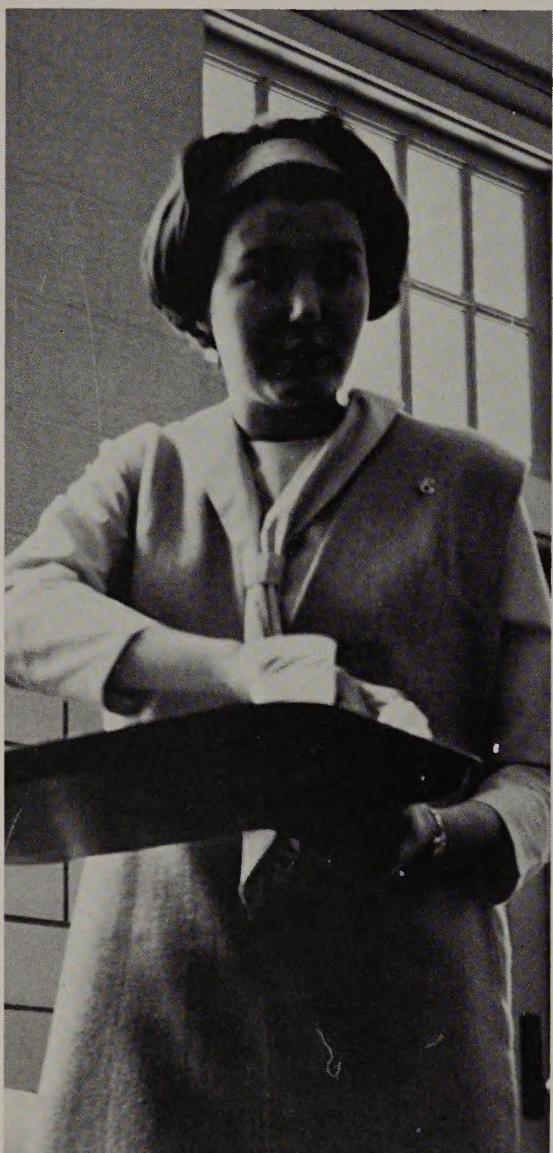

Foreword

What were once seemingly interminable years suddenly become fleeting weeks as the senior nears graduation. He realizes that the mere knowledge he has accumulated does not alone constitute an education. Rather, his increased confidence and his ability to think and communicate are the most valuable benefits he has derived from his high school preparation. After satisfying accomplishments, discouraging setbacks, and much self-appraisal, he is now, hopefully, an individual, ready to meet the challenges that lie beyond commencement.

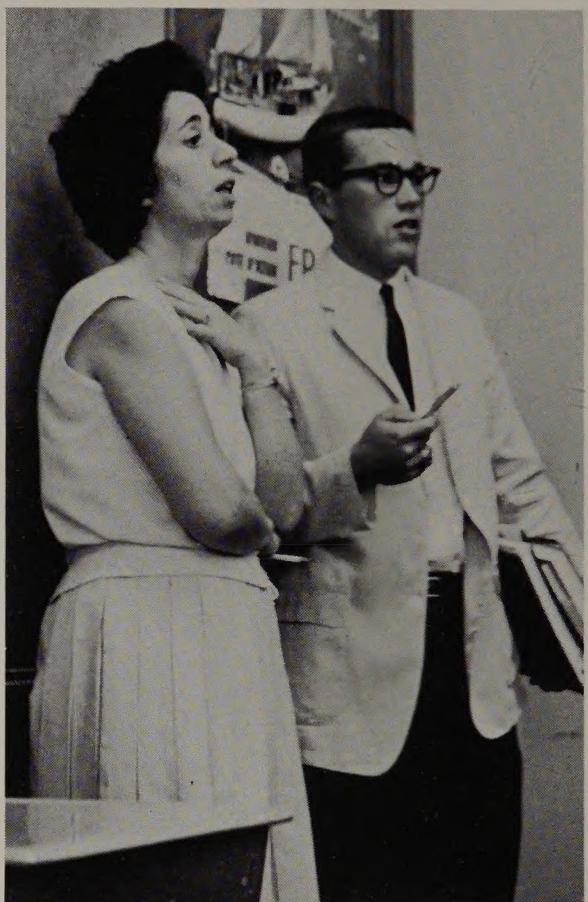

Our youth is made up of timeless moments; and just as the magical quality of a bonfire is captured here, this yearbook will attempt to illustrate our most enlightening experiences.

Superintendent

MR. DONALD F. McCAFFREY

TO THE CLASS OF 1965:

Your education of the past twelve years has provided you with a sense of responsibility with which you can find a happy, successful life. True happiness can best be achieved by helping others. As you make your way in the days ahead you will see many areas in which you can contribute your talent and leadership, to help solve problems in the local government, charitable organizations, church, and other community service work. Many community auxiliary agencies can utilize your time and effort. Contribute to your own growth by being of service to others.

Sincerely,

Donald F. McCaffrey

Superintendent of Schools

MISS HELEN A. REAGAN

Principal

TO THE CLASS OF 1965:

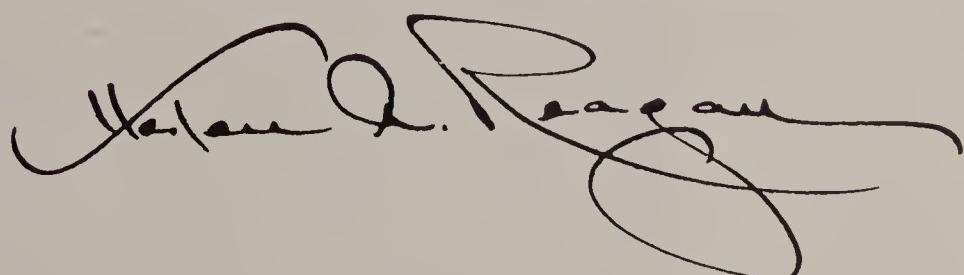

I was pleased to learn that the central theme of the 1965 Yearbook was the development of the 'whole man.' Immediately I was reminded of the motto of my own college "Scientia Aucilla Fidei"—"Knowledge is the Handmaid of Faith" and my message to you was unfolded—a plea for the liberal arts.

The emphasis placed upon specialization during the last decades was a result of the philosophy that came from the depths of the dark depression years. At that time specialized courses were needed to get a job, to hold a job, and to rise to an executive position. Immediately after World War II and the Korean conflict emphasis was placed on technical skills by military personnel, war industries, and in many research divisions by the government itself. Technical "know-how" was a must. However, the years and intensified investigation have proved that, fine as specialization and technical skills may be, a keen awareness of the value of human relations has replaced mastery of specialized phases of training as the all-important requisite for lasting success. Training in any field is inadequate if it becomes too technical at the expense of a basic knowledge and broad grounding in the humanities. Are not these the subjects that help nurture judgments, imagination, and flexibility? Learning in human thought, human relations, and human communication is more essential to the development of the 'whole man' than education confined to a specialized branch of any subject.

I believe that the individual with a broad training in the liberal arts is least likely to become enmeshed in extreme doctrines. He has the understanding needed in the humanistic approach to world-wide problems. He knows the background of history and is able to interpret current events against this panorama.

The assumption that a broad training in the liberal arts equips one to cope with the hectic pattern of our times is not a personal nor a biased opinion. Recently a representative group of college presidents and vice-presidents made a plea for thinking students to select the humanities as the basis of their future studies.

It is my sincere wish that as many of you as are equipped to do so may follow this advice.

Principal

Vice-Principal

TO THE CLASS OF 1965:

We are living in an age of uncertainty. We are beset with internal strife as well as external strife. There is fighting in the streets of America and in the streets of South Viet Nam. We are all part of these conflicts. In addition to this we are on the threshold of the greatest industrial change which the world has ever known, automation. This is the type of world that you are about to enter. Are you prepared? I believe you are. I feel that your years at Case High School have afforded you many opportunities to develop into a complete person, aware of the situations around you and able to cope with them. This implies that you are a well-rounded student, interested in all facets of life.

One cannot be interested in one particular area of life to the exclusion of all others and still be a complete person. There is a place for each individual activity such as music, sports, and studies. The well-rounded person will have an interest in each, which can be carried over into adult life, making him a complete informed citizen of the United States and of the world. I believe that you are that type of citizen and urge you to exercise all the rights and duties inherent in such a citizenship.

My best wishes go with you as you leave Case High School for whatever the future holds in store.

Sincerely,

Edward R. Silva

MARGARET LAHEY
English

English

The English department operates in a dual role as arbiter of grammar and champion of literature. During the earlier years one too often associates English with "who's" and "whom's" and "split-infinitives", until a sentence seems not an expression of thought or emotion but a string of words that can be broken down and neatly diagrammed. Sometime during these four years the student begins to think of language in its noblest form—literature. True literature reveals the realm of man: his nuances of emotion and his place in the universe, by appealing to something in the reader deeper than his intellect. It unites one to all mankind—those of three thousand years past and those of three thousand years to come, expanding, in the words of DeQuincey, "man's latent capacity for sympathy with the infinite."

Chemistry

For them truth comes not from building but from taking apart. Their bible becomes the microscope, the test tube, the slide rule, and they learn to say with Pascal, "What is man as compared with the universe?"

Science is educational, it is instructive, and yet a bit humbling too. For in analyzing and examining, one comes to realize the vastness and complexity of his world from the tiniest chromosome, or electron, to the largest galaxy millions of miles away. And from this dissection will come, ideally, understanding which is in turn the key to progress.

Foreign Languages

The Language department must be an ever-increasing, ever-improving system, for it trains the mind to think, to seek, and to communicate. Perhaps the greatest fruit of this communication is mutual understanding. Man becomes not an island but a reaching, thriving, sharing entity, able to bridge the gap between diverse environments and the blockade of phonetics. And by studying not only the French, Latin, and Spanish tongues, but also their histories and cultures, the student's knowledge and awareness of his own civilization grows.

Physical Education

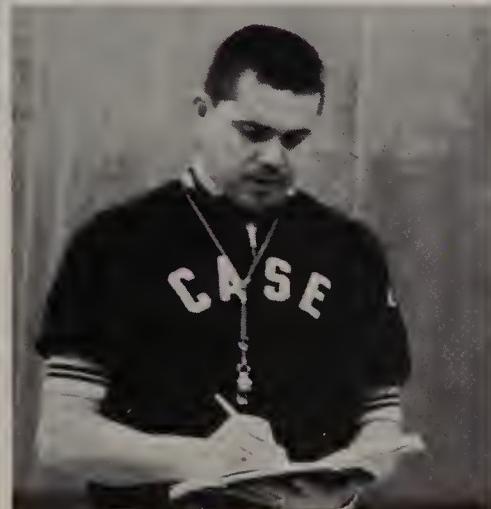

The physical education department is directed toward advancing each student toward top physical condition thus educating both his mind and body.

The program is regulated according to the seasons of the year, beginning with touch football and field hockey in the fall, continuing with basketball, gymnastics, and volleyball in the winter, and finishing with softball and archery in the spring.

Although anyone can pass phys ed by simply performing to the best of his ability, much more can be derived than that. A student can learn sportsmanship, teamwork, and confidence—all of which will make him a better person following the four year course.

Music

Room 35 is more than a slightly crowded, unceasingly noisy place, marked very inauspiciously and with a great deal of humor "Music Room." It becomes for many a way of life, a fulfillment, an escape. Its students know and exult in many small things: the pleasure of staying on pitch throughout a long piece sung a cappella, mastering the "eight steps to ten yards" axiom during football season, or the quiet fraternity of just gathering around the piano to sing. Their verve and joy in living so eloquently expressed in song, be it the oom-pah of a sousaphone, or the stately strains of a Bach chorale, cannot help but carry over into other parts of their school life, giving them a strange aura of pride and accomplishment. "With a voice of singing, declare ye this and let it be heard—Allelulia!"

Homecoming

The rooms are a model home, replete with sink, stove, sewing machine, and ironing board, and the girls form an endless picture of America. They are the backbone of future homes and from them will come generations of housewives, of mothers, of individuals, prepared and assured no matter what may befall them.

Mathematics

Mathematics is a science, a language, pathway to reality and to the realm of the imaginary: the reality of solids and everyday functions and the unreal numbers such as "i" whose credibility is left in the hands of one's imagination.

Whether bisecting an angle, or isolating real and imaginary roots, students are encouraged to find a solution with the aid of theorems and axioms, always asking "Why is this true?" The mathematics department tries to cultivate in them the products of logic and reason combined with an appreciation for the means of simplifying the phenomena of the universe, mathematics.

Auto Shop

The auto shop is synonymous with hard work and newfound responsibility. Here, in a world inhabited by earnest, budding mechanics, the student learns to quickly transfer his fundamental knowledge to practical applications. Whereas in the college curriculum the student accumulates learning, often with no discernible goal, a member of the auto shop is immediately capable of testing, constructing, or fixing through his knowledge.

Social Studies

PAUL MONAHAN
Social Studies, Senior Class Advisor

The social studies department presents a wide selection of programs for its students. For those who are not fascinated by such topics as the fall of the Roman Empire, physical features of Madagascar, or urban renewal, be patient, for something more entertaining is certain to appear. It may be a movie of last week's football game, a Senior Scholastic with sections on jokes and teenage problems, or a class discussion on high school romances. All these things are classified under that important part of learning known as social studies.

Art Room

The art room is the beginning of what is for many an interesting and exciting career. Here the students learn to capture in a sketch or a painting the beauty they see in the world, and make it live. The art department tries to lay a foundation so that its student will someday know the satisfaction of turning emotion into substance, the intangible into the tangible.

Business

Theirs is a different world than that of test tubes and logarithms. It resounds to the ring of a typewriter carriage, the scribble of pencils busily taking shorthand, and the endless practicalities of office practice. Indeed the word practicalities seems to be forever in the minds of those who inhabit these halls. It forms the basis for an unceasing preparation directed toward their stepping quickly and confidently from theory to actuality, sure in their ability to perform a job efficiently and thoroughly.

Class of 1966

A junior is known by the overwhelming amount of books he lugs around, and an expansive frown which precedes those first college boards. When glimpsed in the secrecy of a pre-Prom session, he would seem to be all efficiency, the soul of today's model youth; but when caught off-guard in his natural habitat—the gab session, he reveals himself as young, striving, slightly insecure.

His days are filled with tranquility and turbulence, calm and controversy, decision and doubt, the light of the future clouded by shadows cast by the trials of adolescence.

A sophomore owns the earth, the school or maybe only his homeroom desk—for a while at least, though you'd never tell him that. He is the salt of the earth: old enough to try anything, and young enough not to care when he fails. His is an existence deceptively serene, punctuated now and then by a tough Biology test, or the sudden knowledge that the girl in his geometry class is, after all, a girl.

He is an avid promoter of everything from cake sales, to disarmament, callously spanning the entire spectrum of human emotion with an earnest, confidential, "no matter what it is, we'll remedy it." A sophomore is, admittedly, delightful.

Class of 1968

The initial high school year is one of rapid and bewildering change. A freshman has, for the first time, a unified class with which to identify himself. Having thus found group identity, he can go on to seek new kinds of self-expression; some crude, some surprisingly articulate. The freshman student, after his first eagerness, soon becomes resigned to the facts and fallacies of Latin and Algebra. Whether consciously or not, the freshman's perspective is expanding, and his often stagnant mentality is growing: the horizons which have opened up for the student will continue to widen the rest of his life.

Student Council

The Student Council is the students' only representative body. Its task is to present ideas, changes, and laws to the administration, earnestly solicit funds for the Dana G. Plante Scholarship Fund, provide ushers for the musical presentations, and attempt to develop a well balanced school atmosphere. Although the Council's membership is limited, its influence is all-inclusive.

The members of the National Honor Society are the intellects, the high ranking leaders of their class. But these 'brains' do not only "study". They are also participants in every other aspect of school life, for their knowledge is that, "Books cannot always please, however good."

Literary Staff

The Oracle offered the first opportunity for the students at Case to exercise their creative abilities. The many short stories, poems, and essays submitted were evidence of the many 'hidden talents' harbored by the students. An energetic editor and a few willing staff members helped to bring these flairs for 'art' to the attention of the school, and to encourage the exercise of literary skills.

Members of the World Affairs Club are searching for a better understanding of our nation's relationship with the rest of the world. Their monthly meeting includes a discussion of a current news topic, so that all may learn to contribute their ideas. The club also offers its members an opportunity to visit various conventions and conferences where they may actually witness democracy in action.

In September publishing a newspaper was not only a challenge but also a thrill for each aspiring journalist. By January publishing a newspaper was a task. Each staff member learned that this was one venture where you could not benefit if you would not willingly contribute. It is a job which requires more than intelligence—a certain degree of dedication.

Librarians

The Librarians' task is to keep the library files in order, keep an accurate record of all in-coming and out-going books, and help manage the annual Book Fair. Theirs is often a burdensome job, for they must willingly give up study halls to work in the library. Our efficient library system is a credit to their diligence.

The Bios Clubbers may well be deemed the hardest workers in the school. Armed with picks and shovels, they willingly give up afternoons and weekends to help beautify the dam site. One of the rewards of their diligence is an annual weekend excursion, when they forget their tools of husbandry and concentrate on having a good time.

Future Teachers

The F.T.A. is a new organization which not only joins students of similar interests, but also gives them an excellent opportunity to talk with those employed in their chosen profession. This new Swansea Chapter has been named in honor of Mrs. E. Allen, a former, well loved, Case English teacher. Through the efforts of a very willing advisor, the club should continue to grow, offering a variety of students widespread opportunity.

The choir is very simply for those who love to sing. In the course of each year they sing music to satisfy every taste: spiritual, secular, modern, novelty, folk. Although the hours of rehearsal seem long and tedious, they all become worthwhile on the night of a performance. The chorus members become more than sopranos, altos, tenors, and basses. They are one hard working unit, with a love for a song.

Football 1964-1965

Although our record wasn't the best, this year's Cardinal football team left little to be desired in spirit and effort. No one quit when the going got tough except perhaps a few town and school supporters.

We began the season with a bang with a 6-0 victory over Old Rochester. Impressive indeed was the Cardinal team as they played their hearts out, but it was to be a short, tired moment of glory as our fortunes were soon to turn directions. Oftimes we played as well as the opposition yet suffered defeat at the hands of fate and or poor fortune. Twice we lost 6-0 and five times we lost by 8 points or less. We took our beatings also, (29-0 to Franklin) as no one can deny; yet still no football player quit.

In summary, the Case team was one of which we can be proud. Each boy came out a better man at the end of the season than when he began. And this is the purpose of high school sports.

ALMA MATER

Our strong bond can ne'er be broken
Form'd in dear Case High.
Far surpassing wealth unspoken
Seal'd by friendship's tie.

CHORUS: Alma Mater—Alma Mater,
Deep graven on each heart,
Ode Victorious, we go singing
As from these halls we depart.

Mem'ry's leaflets close shall twine
Around our hearts for aye,
And waft us back o'er life's broad track
To pleasures of past day.

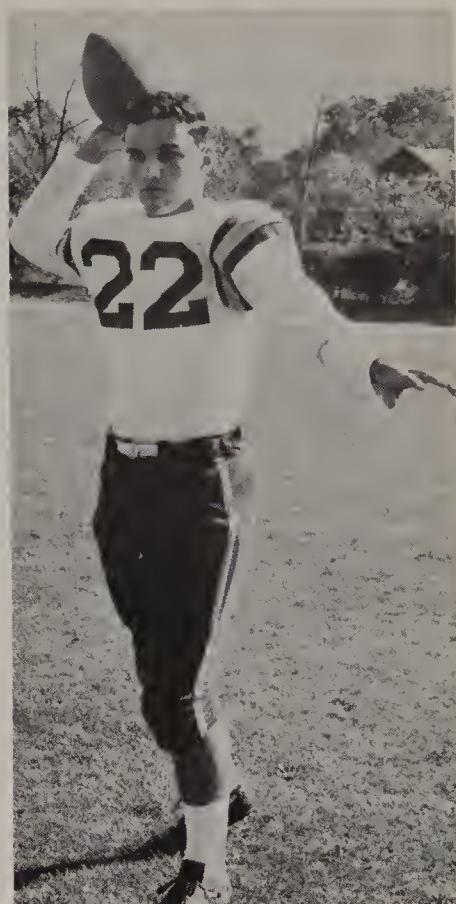

High School life at best is passing
Gliding swiftly by;
Then let us pledge in word and deed
Our love for dear Case High.

GENE WILLETT

Our fine quintet of hoopsters under the tutoring of Howie O'Hare finished their season with a fine 9 wins and 7 losses record. Yet the Cardinal team was better than its record boasts. We were surprised by a mediocre Somerset five and twice upset by Diman. Surely no one will soon forget our second encounter with Dighton-Rehoboth when we brought the champs into overtime before succumbing by two points. We finished third in the Narry League, behind Dighton and Holy Family, missing eligibility for the Tech tournament by two losses.

The club depended upon the rebounding prowess of Gene Willette and Stan Johnson, while Jack Eddy was the big scorer aided again by Willette and Johnson. Bob English, the underrated defensive genius of the team was consistently assigned the opposition's most potent scoring punch. Hustling sophomore Jerry Kay was an all round player with hot shooting, bothersome defense, and even a rebound or two. On the shoulders of these five, ably backed by the other energetic members of the team, Case placed its fortunes, and they carried the load well.

Cross-Country

The cross-country runner is a special breed of athlete: he finds exhilaration in laboring up hills and flying down them, and satisfaction in knowing that he has done his best in a two and a half mile race.

Although Case's harriers suffered another dismal season, fine individual performances were turned in by junior, Harry McKinley and senior, Jack Eddy. The Cardinals' ace McKinley placed first consistently and finished fourth in the tough Southeastern Massachusetts League.

Track

Coach Joe LaFazia's tracksters continued their success in 1964 as they compiled a 4-2 record and narrowly missed a third consecutive Narry championship. Although its streak of 19 victories in 20 meets was stopped by Narry League champ Old Rochester, Case buried arch-rival Somerset 78-26, and scored resounding wins over Warren, Apponequet, and Dighton-Rehoboth.

Seven new records were established. Bob English shattered the school record in the javelin with a toss of 168'5"; shotputter Rock Dumas pushed the mark to 51'6½"; Jim Mello ran the 100-yard dash in 10.3; Mike Travers vaulted 10'9" and Earl Malmborg high-jumped 5'9"; Ed Vigneau ran the 880 in 2:10.4; and the Cardinal relay team of Jerry Johnson, Ed Malmborg, John Soares and Jim Mello tied the Case standard of 1:36.5.

Field Hockey

Run, run, run . . . this is the magic word in our game. There is no time for resting. We must travel up and down . . . up and down that long, bare, trampled field. Our legs ache, our lungs cry for air but we must go on. We must get the small white ball into our opponent's goal. From a long distance we hear faintly the shouts of the coach: "Get that ball!" "Don't fiddle!" "Drive, you're in the circle!" "Move!" But there is no time to stop and listen, we must play. We are forced to act without thinking. Those many long hours of practice have prepared us; we are at our best.

We spent so many hours after school on that hot field trying so hard to better ourselves, listening to the experienced words of our coach. Yet when we got on the field to face an opponent we usually came out second best. However none of us felt discouraged; we tried our best, we played and lost. We learned that everyone can't win.

During the third week of November there was much buzzing on the girls' side of the gym. The event was basketball tryouts. Representatives of all classes were present; they were eager to win a position on one of the two teams. In three days, the coach had her team chosen, and from then on it was practice, practice, and more practice. However it was not all work; we had fun. After all, enjoyment is the main purpose of high school athletics.

We had a fairly successful season, winning seven out of ten games. Two of the games that we lost were heartbreakers, both by 4 points. We finished the season in second place. The season was eclipsed by an invitation to the Southeastern Massachusetts Invitational Girls' Basketball Tournament. However in the first round of play we were defeated by a fast moving Wareham team which went to the finals.
